"I've taught from California to Massachusettes and attended national conferences on education all over the country. I've never seen anyone bring more out of these kids in such a short amount of time."

"I loved it so much when Paul Taylor came to our school. He is a really funny guy. Normally, it would have been boring, but Paul Taylor explained Australia in ways I would never imagine. It was really good for me to learn about a different culture. Even though he was at Harrison for a week, every time I saw him I got the chills. I like how everyday he wore something different that symbolized different things from Australia. I would give anything to have him come back, but know that other kids need to have a fantastic turn. "No worries, mate!"

Story Creation

Long ago in the Dreamtime there lived a brilliant star who outshone all the other stars. He loved to dance and make music. He played his lagerphone all night long and kept the other stars awake. In a moment of extreme tiredness the elder stars banned that livley star to Earth. His punishment was to teach earthlings about music and dance. And that's how it came to be that we were lucky enough to live and learn with Paul Taylor.
